

Resources & Shooter Progression

Once your HQ path is under control, you need resources and hero progression to keep the account moving.

Step 3: Keep Core Resource Buildings Running

Your shelter has three important basic resource-production buildings:

Building	Produces
Farmhouse	Food
Lumberyard	Wood
Wind Turbine	Electricity

These resources support construction, building upgrades, and troop training.

However, early progression generally benefits more from:

HQ prerequisites • Events • Gathering • Rewards

than from trying to max every production building.

Don't Let Resource Buildings Distract You

Upgrade them when useful, but don't delay an important HQ prerequisite simply because another resource building can be upgraded.

Your goal is efficient progression, not equal building levels.

Step 4: Push Shooter Stages

Don't ignore Shooter stages while developing your shelter.

Shooter stages provide useful rewards, including XP crates for leveling your heroes.

The different Shooter modes also contribute to long-term progression and feed into each other.

When Construction Slows Down

Long building timers don't mean your progression has to stop.

Use that time to:

- Push Shooter stages
- Earn rewards
- Collect Hero XP
- Gather resources
- Participate in events
- Prepare for your next required upgrade

Your builders may be busy, but your account shouldn't be idle.

IMPORTANT TIPS

- Keep resource production running, but don't over-prioritize them early.
- Early progress usually comes from HQ prerequisites, events, gathering, and rewards.
- Upgrade resource buildings when useful, but don't delay important HQ prerequisites.

USE BUILDING TIME WISELY

Long construction timers don't mean your progression has to stop.
